

FORMAT	SHOOT TIME	GEAR	SPEAKER
Talking head, 22–30 sec	~10 min per video	iPhone + lavalier	Founder + 1 real wholesaler

Seven talking-head scripts — one per selected hook. Each script has: HOOK CARD (3-sec text overlay), TALK (improvise around the script, don't read it), and CTA CARD (3-sec close).

The thread — every script lands the same product idea: a licensed NC GC writes the rehab budget AND commits to do the work at that price. That commitment is what makes the buyer sign without negotiating.

Production tip — shoot all 7 in one session. Same setup, same shirt, same window. 30 minutes flat if you don't over-rehearse. Improvise around the script; don't memorize.

HOOK #11

Wholesaling isn't a numbers business. It's a construction business.

~25 sec · confident, counter-intuitive · Asher / Darius / any NC GC voice

① HOOK CARD · text on screen, 3 seconds, no voice

Wholesaling isn't a numbers business.
It's a construction business.

② TALK TO CAMERA · ~18 sec talking to camera

"You think you found a deal? Cool. You ran comps? Great. None of that matters at the closing table. The buyer is going to walk the property and ask construction questions. The panel. The foundation. The roof. If you can't answer them, your rehab number doesn't hold — and your assignment doesn't hold.

You're not in the numbers game. You're in the construction game. You just don't have a construction partner yet."

HOOK #21

Why does the same deal pay $8K to one wholesaler and $40K to another?

~25 sec · investigative tone · pairs well with 3-tier visual b-roll

① HOOK CARD · text on screen, 3 seconds, no voice

Why does the same deal pay $8K to one wholesaler and $40K to another?

② TALK TO CAMERA · ~18 sec talking to camera

"Same Charlotte property. Same buyer pool. Same week. The first wholesaler walks out with eight grand. The third walks out with forty.

What's different? Not the deal. Not the comps. Not the buyers. The only thing that's different is who wrote the rehab number — and whether the person who wrote it will also build it.

Napkin number from the wholesaler gets chopped. Licensed GC who's committing to do the work for that price? Buyer signs."

HOOK #23

What separates a $5K wholesaler from a $40K one?

~22 sec · identity hook · direct to camera, tight

① HOOK CARD · text on screen, 3 seconds, no voice

What separates a $5K wholesaler from a $40K one?

② TALK TO CAMERA · ~16 sec talking to camera

"Not the deals they find. Not the lists they pull. Not their market.

It's whether the buyer can argue with the rehab number. If you wrote it yourself, the buyer can argue. If a GC wrote it AND is going to build it for that price? The argument's over.

That's the whole gap. Five grand to forty grand on the same property."

HOOK #24

What if the buyer COULDN'T argue with your rehab number?

~22 sec · aspirational, sets the desired state

① HOOK CARD · text on screen, 3 seconds, no voice

What if the buyer COULDN'T argue with your rehab number?

② TALK TO CAMERA · ~16 sec talking to camera

"Imagine you walk into closing. You hand the buyer your assignment, your rehab budget, your scope of work. He opens it, reads it, and signs. No back-and-forth. No 'meet me at $5K.' No sharpie.

That's what happens when the rehab number comes from a licensed GC who's also committing to do the work at that price. The buyer isn't being asked to trust YOU. He's being asked to trust the builder who's going to do the build. That's different."

HOOK #25

I'm a licensed NC GC. Here's what I see at closing tables.

~25 sec · authority position · PERFECT for Asher / Darius as speaker

① HOOK CARD · text on screen, 3 seconds, no voice

I'm a licensed NC GC.
Here's what I see
at closing tables.

② TALK TO CAMERA · ~20 sec talking to camera

"A wholesaler brings a deal with a $35K rehab number. The buyer walks it. Sees the panel needs an upgrade. Sees the roof line is shot. Turns to the wholesaler: 'Your number's wrong. I'll do this at $5K assignment, not $25.'

Wholesaler can't defend the number — he's not a contractor. He takes the $5K.

Here's what changes when we get involved: we write the rehab budget AND commit to do the work at that number. Now when the buyer pushes back, the answer is: 'we'll do it for this. That's how real it is.' He signs."

HOOK #26

Real talk — I lost $35K guessing the rehab.

~30 sec · testimonial confession · IDEAL: real wholesaler, not founder

① HOOK CARD · text on screen, 3 seconds, no voice

Real talk —
I lost $35K guessing the rehab.

② TALK TO CAMERA · ~24 sec talking to camera

"I had a Charlotte property under contract. Did my comps. Ran my math. $45K rehab, I thought. Brought it to a cash buyer.

He walked it ONCE. Started pointing at stuff I'd never looked at — the panel, the foundation, the roof tie-ins. By the time we got to the table he had me at $5K assignment instead of $25K.

That happened three more times before I figured it out. The problem wasn't the deal. The problem was I was speaking the wrong language at the table.

Now I bring a licensed NC GC to walk the property and write the budget. He commits to do the work at that price. Buyer can argue with him or sign the check. They sign. Last three closings: $32K, $38K, $42K."

HOOK #32

We're a licensed NC GC. We'll write your rehab number AND build it.

~25 sec · brand-direct · founder voice (Asher/Darius)

① HOOK CARD · text on screen, 3 seconds, no voice

We're a licensed NC GC.
We'll write your rehab number
AND build it.

② TALK TO CAMERA · ~18 sec talking to camera

"Here's the offer. You bring us a wholesale deal. We walk the property. We write the rehab budget. We commit to do the work at that price.

You walk into closing with a number a buyer can't argue with — because the people who wrote the number are the people who'll show up Monday morning with the tools.

Buyer signs. Deal closes at the top of the range. Same property the next wholesaler walked away from with eight grand."
